

Painting Lessons with Kat Corrigan~ Painting What You See~ and Learning to SEE~

At the Bottle Rocket Building in Seward,
3530 East 28th Street
Minneapolis, MN 55406

January/February 2014
Jan 22,29, Feb 5, 12, 19th!
all 5 lessons for $165!

OR All 5 for $200, materials INCLUDED!

Classes begin with demos, tips and hints followed by enforced painting time. The first two classes focus on how to set up a still life with objects at hand, and the second two look at using photos as reference, including photos on digital media like cameras, iPhones and laptops. We will study composition, using a viewfinder, preparatory sketching, mixing color and basic color theory. You WILL have HOMEWORK, and you will have in-class assignments! The idea is to get you kickstarted into your OWN painting practice!

As an artist and a pet portraitist, Kat has been painting for over twenty years, with a serious concentration on dogs and cats since 2008 when she began work on her "AutobiDOgraphy" series, a continually growing collection of paintings based on her childhood canine companions.

Kat studied painting at the College of St Benedict and St Kate's, and has spent a week every spring in Grand Marais at the Art Colony painting with Elizabeth Erickson of the Women's Art Institute. In August of 2011, Kat made the trek to the Peninsula School of Arts to study with Carol Marine, a renowned Daily Painting artist and teacher, and uses some of Carol's ideas and techniques in her classes.

Her work has been collected around the globe and she has won awards and honors in a number of exhibitions and continues to show around the Twin Cities area. She also greatly enjoys painting commissioned work, as it provides the exterior enforcement of deadlines and a working relationship with a client that stimulates her latent control freak.

For more information, please call 612-720-6675 or email katjojo@hotmail.com, or check my website at www.katcorrigan.com or my blog at katcorrigan.blogspot.com.

